Won $16,000 at Roulette.

Dr. William Thornton, who is the defendant in the somewhat remarkable suit brought by the proprietor of a gambling house to recover $15,800, which the doctor won at the roulette wheel, has quite a reputation in Boston for playing big stakes. There is an interesting story of his run of luck at the Savage Club. At first he lost heavily, but kept on playing, and on the morning of Feb. 1st his luck returned with a rush. He won on every play. He sat down to the wheel soon after midnight, and didn't get up until long after daybreak. Wherever he placed his chips—and each one represented $5—the ball stopped. There was only $4,000 in the bank, and that was soon the doctor's. He played single numbers, and every time he won his stakes were multiplied thirty-five times. As the night wore on the doctor found his pile of chips steadily increasing, and he weakened. He didn't dare go home with so much money. He played recklessly, but he couldn't lose. At last, when the day was well advanced and the sidewalk was crowded, the doctor decided he had had enough. His winnings for the night were $10,000. He took $4,000 in cash and a check for $6,000. Henry Reeb, the proprietor of the club, who had played against Dr. Thornton, borrowed the money and cashed the check that afternoon. The next night the doctor tried his luck again, and carried off $2,000. The third night he won an equal amount, and on February 4 he stopped after winning $1,000.

That was the end of his running luck. A few days later Dr. Thornton again visited the club and lost $6,000. He didn't have the cash with him, and tendered his note, payable in fourteen days. It was accepted without any hesitation. It is said, however, that the doctor dishonored his note. He took the ground that the note was given by him in consideration of money lost at gambling, and that the note was not held in good faith. This made the gamblers mad, and they took legal steps to get even with the doctor. They attached his real estate and bank account and demanded a refunding of the $15,000 won by him. It is that case which is now on trial.

FIENDISH DUELISTS.—The particulars of a very singular duel recently fought in Taos co., N.M., are just coming to light. An Indian settler named Wankinshe and Juan Verges, a wealthy Mexican cattle man, repaired to a spot about six miles from the town of Taos, just at the break of day to "settle an old grudge." The weapons were butcher knives, and by the method of fighting agreed upon each man was to submit his hand to his opponent and have one finger cut off, the cutting to be done alternately and the man who first evinced signs of pain to be stabbed to the heart. The Indian by tosse secured the first cut, and deliberately taking the hand of the enemy with a quick stroke severed his forefinger. The Mexican never uttered a sound. The Indian reached out his hand and off came his thumb. This continued in silence until the cattleman had lost four fingers and the Indian four. When the Indian reached for his foe's left hand the latter's second becoming frightened at the fearful flow of blood, sent a bullet through the Indian's heart. The affair is one of the most barbarous and inhuman ever heard of in any land and all parties to it should be prosecuted. It is thought the cattle man will die.

LOVE'S DREAM QUICKLY ENDED.—The elopement of A. R. Matchett, son of the wealthy paper box manufacturer, of Pittsburgh, with Mary, daughter of E. D. Wilt, manager of the Grand Opera House, which occurred last July, has turned out to be a case of repentance at leisure. The young lady, after three months of wedded life, has returned to her father's home, and the husband has put an advertisement in the newspaper warning persons not to trust her, as he will not pay her debts. The young wife who is petite and pretty, says she thinks it was "real mean of Dick" to put the notice in the paper, and now she will not go back to him.

MEDICINAL.

A VETERAN.

I was wounded in the great battle of Stone River, Dec. 31st, 1862. My blood was poisoned from the effects of the wound, and the leg swelled to double its natural size, and remained so for many years. The poison extended to my whole system, and I suffered a thousand deaths. Nothing did me any good until I took Swift's Specific, which took the poison out of my system, and enabled me to feel myself a man again. S. S. S. is the remedy for blood poison.
